

---

Guns aren't the only thing we have to regulate

Captain obvious, we have to modulate the virus too

MORGAN MCMULLEN/GETTY IMAGES

Before COVID-19 struck the world, people were getting increasingly scared of multiple terrorism acts. People were getting anxious about which country would be threatened, then bombed multiple times next. What they didn't know was something smaller than war's tiniest ammunition is about to cause greater havoc than the world has ever experienced: the Coronavirus. To make things worse, global warming has sped up the release of prehistoric viruses preserved in the Arctic's deepest icecaps; the kind where scientists say it would be impossible to heal from with current technology.

By Carl Kho on September 15, 2021.

Canonical link

Exported from Medium on October 31, 2025.